iPhone

Android

BlackBerry

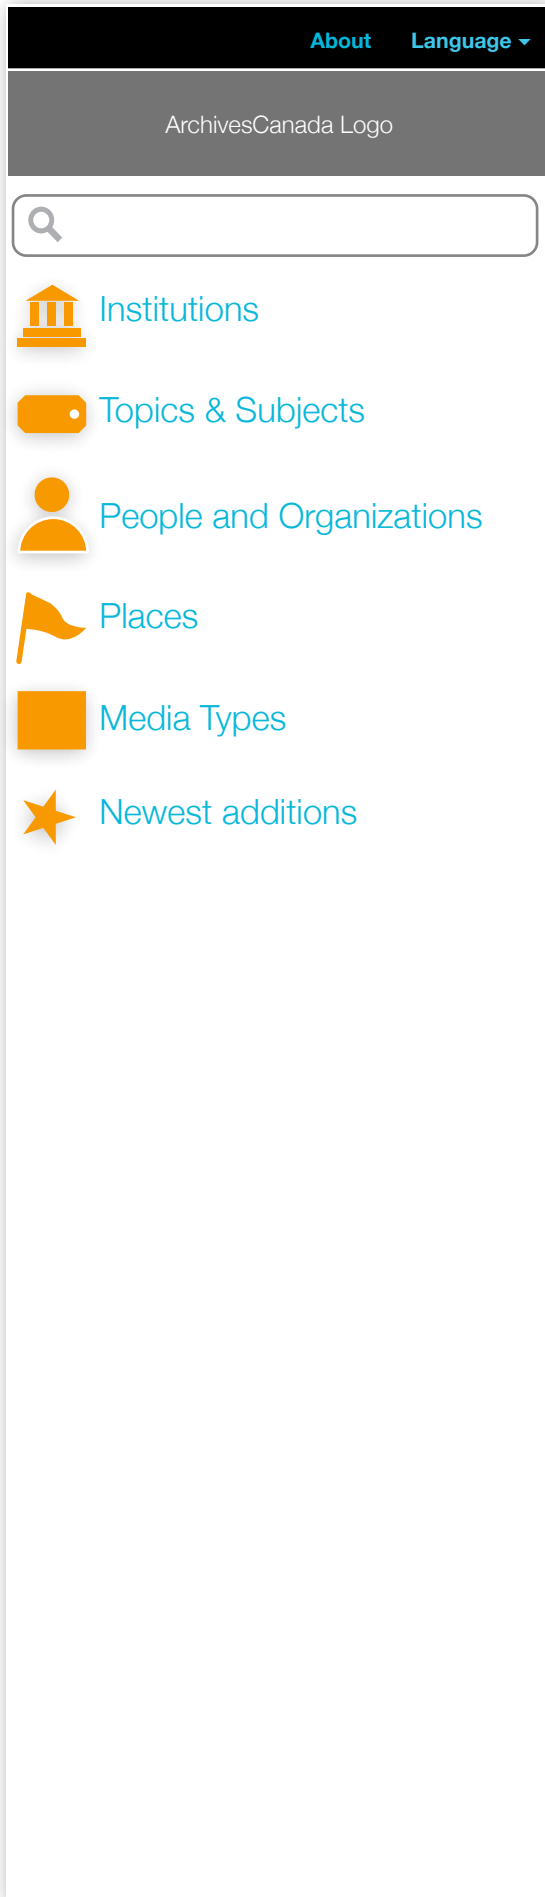

Windows Phone 7

Device Support

- Modern smartphones (2009+)
- Touch & non-touch (BlackBerry)
- Only portrait orientation
- No offline-mode
- Multiple screen width & height supported
- Selected brands cover 95%+ of the North American market in 2012

Approach

- We will create a generic mobile site that will work well on the devices described in 'Device Support'
- No specific optimizations for individual devices
- The mobile website will only allow browse + search of content and content presentation; no login or data entry.

This is an example of the homepage when a user accesses the search Archives Canada portal using a mobile device. (Note: Icons will be updated with custom-designed icons at a later date.)

History	The City of Vancouver constructed a maritime museum as its project for the British Columbia Centennial in 1958. In 1959, City Council established a board to administer the Maritime and City Museum. The Maritime Museum formally opened in 1960. In 1972, the Vancouver Museum and Planetarium Association took over the management and operation of the Maritime Museum. In 1974, the Maritime Museum designated the City Archives as its official archives, thus many research collections acquired by the Vancouver Maritime Museum have been transferred to the City Archives
Records management and collecting policies	The W B and M H Chung Library maintains and collects items documenting Canadian marine heritage, principally of the Pacific Northwest and the Canadian Arctic. More general themes surrounding our interaction with the sea are also included and become more global in coverage. Holdings consist of ephemeral materials, press clippings, vessel documents, and related correspondence, on sail, steam and motor vessels. Other formats include photographs, photo albums, scrap books, log books, ship plans, charts, and manuscripts.
